

Silver Wedding.

The neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. John Bogner paid a surprise visit to their home on Thursday afternoon, November 11th, to help them to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. About 30 guests were present. Rev. J. J. Kuring was chairman of a program of songs, recitations etc. by a number of children. Several of the adult members of the party spoke words of felicitation to the happy couple. There were several relatives from Huxley, Trochu and Calgary present.

Evangelistic Services at Evangelical Church

Special evangelistic services will be held at the Evangelical Church from November 21st to December 5th, with Rev. F. S. Magsig, of Regina, as the speaker beginning November 23rd.

Rev. Magsig conducts the "Sunday School of the Air" from Regina every Sunday morning and is an outstanding speaker.

A cordial invitation is issued to all to attend these special services.

Social Credit M.L.A. Opposed to Press Bill

Rev. Roy Taylor, Deputy Speaker of the Alberta Legislature, speaking at Stavely recently said he differed with the government on the Press Bill. He was opposed to confiscation of advertising space, stating that advertising is the source of livelihood of newspapers and should be paid for, not confiscated by the government.

Mountain View M.D. Council Meeting

The regular meeting of Mountain View municipal council was held at Olds on Saturday, with Reeve Saunders in the chair.

It was reported that the road program had been completed and that the road machinery had been laid up for the winter.

The practicability of purchasing a snow plow to be used on the large tractor, was discussed, and a committee was authorized to look into the matter when in Edmonton attending the convention.

There was considerable discussion over a letter which had been received from the department of relief. The letter showed that there were still ten families in the municipality who were still receiving direct relief, and pointed out that as the crops in the district showed considerable improvement over those of last year and now could be considered as normal, it would seem that the need of issuing relief was not apparent.

A committee was appointed to interview the relief commissioner on this matter while the committee was in Edmonton.

Six applications for tax consolidation were approved; one application for old age pension was approved; and three applications under the farmers' credit arrangement act were reported.

Reeve Saunders and Councillor Archer were appointed delegates to attend the convention of the Alberta rural municipalities being held at Edmonton this week.

Hunting Parties Come and Go

Several hunting parties returned last weekend and each brought in their game, but report that hunting around the headwaters of the Big Red was not as good as it had been in some previous years. One party claims that Indians had been into the country and driven out the game, while others say that the depredations of the cougar had thinned out the game.

Bert Fisher, John Topley and Otto Mueller who were hunting at the headwaters of the Big Red, returned with one moose and two deer, while Percy Lunt, Irwin Klein, Otto Krebs and Gordon Ford who were hunting in the same country, brought in two deer.

Stewart Tighe, Ken McCoy, Bob Cunningham and Sam Thompson returned from hunting in the Clearwater country northwest of here, and each had a moose to his credit. They report that hunting was fairly good in that section. Moose are plentiful, but deer are somewhat scarce.

C. H. Adshead, J. S. McCloy, A. G. Studer and George Murray (Olds) left on Wednesday for the James River country and said that they were not returning until they had got their full quota.

Truck Overtakes.

Conveying a load of cattle, hogs and empty oil drums to Calgary, a truck owned by M. P. Black, of Leslieville, Alberta, overturned at the auto camp corner Monday morning. The animals were driven to the stockyards. The driver of the truck and his companion both escaped injury, and after attention at a local garage the truck and its contents were able to proceed on their way.

Powell Sentenced to Six Months

G. F. Powell, London, Douglas Social Credit consultant to Alberta, was sentenced to six months in jail with hard labor, and advised his deportation would be recommended, by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, late Monday afternoon. He was found guilty of a libel charge arising out of the "Bankers' Toadies" pamphlet.

The jurist censured Powell for his activities since coming here in June. Powell was a "propagandist" whose products Alberta could do without—not a "technician," said His Lordship.

After the judge gave judgment during which Powell stood erect in the prisoner's box, Hugh Calais MacDonald, K.C., defence counsel, said conviction and sentence would be appealed.

Mr. Justice Ives delivered the judgment orally without leaving the bench.

Arrangements for bail pending appeal were being made late Monday.

It is expected the appeal would be heard in January at the same time as that of Joseph Unwin, Social Credit M.L.A. for Edson and party whip, who was sentenced to three months with hard labor, on the same charge.

Powell and Unwin faced charges of publishing defamatory libel knowing it to be false, and publishing defamatory libel. They were convicted on the first count, which also embraced the second.

Powell and Unwin occupied separate cells in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks Monday night. For supper they were given potatoes and sausage, regular fare for the rest of the prisoners.

They have been given no special privileges and have had no visitors. Neither had they received any special food or luxuries from friends outside the jail, it was said. It was expected their bail would be arranged Tuesday.—Calgary Albertan

Get 60c Per Month For Straw Feeding

Sixty cents per head per month is the prevailing rate being paid farmers of the district for straw feeding cattle from the drouth areas, and not 75 cents as reported recently. Seventy five cents is being paid to farmers where special care is given to cattle such as purebred stock sent here for winter feeding, of which there were only about 25 head last week. Cattle in such circumstances are not straw fed, it was explained.

Social Credit Convention.

Resolutions urging the provincial government to implement a scheme of compulsory hail insurance in time for the 1938 crop, and for the government to pay freight on feed shipped into drouth areas, were among the six resolutions passed at the annual Social Credit convention of the Didsbury constituency held here last Wednesday. Delegates and visitors from Acme, Carbon, Three Hills, Swatwell, Carstairs and Didsbury attended the meeting.

Resolutions asking the government to arrange as soon as possible for the purchase of seed grain for those who are unable to pay for their own; that all trucks be compelled to have a row of red and green lights on the back of the vehicle; and that the Three Hills groups endorse 100 per cent the actions of the government in establishing a Social Credit commission, also were passed. The convention also passed a resolution asking for the resignation of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, charging that he had failed even to start to implement his election promises.

Officers elected were: Hon. president, Premier Aberhart; hon. vice-president, E. P. Foster, M.L.A.; president, H. Hammell, Carstairs; vice-presidents, M. Weber, Didsbury, and Harley King, Acme; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Wheeler, Acme.

Delegates elected to the divisional convention at Calgary: D. Witwer, Three Hills; Arthur Wheeler, Acme; M. Weber, Didsbury, and P. Worthington, Westcott.

Following the convention a mass meeting attended by 300 people was held in the evening, at which E. P. Foster, M.L.A., W. King, M.L.A., and C. E. Johnson, M.P. for Bow Valley, were the chief speakers.

Hon. Lucien Maynard who was advertised to speak, could not be present, having been called to Ottawa. He will speak in Carstairs at an early date.

At Carstairs: Mr. and Mrs. Boucock and family left Sunday by car for Roseburg, Oregon, where they will make their home in the future.

The newly formed badminton club has 37 members signed up and expect to commence play by the end of the week.

Armistice Concert.

The Armistice Dance and concert under the auspices Canadian Legion was attended by the usual large audience which always greet any such affair given by the Legion.

The program was exceptionally well rendered, the singing of Horace Reynolds, baritone, and the playing of Jean Cruickshank, L.R.S.M., violin, and Dora Collins, L.R.S.M., piano, fully deserved the applause they received.

Max Bishop, the comedian, had an excellent choice of songs which greatly pleased the audience while Barbara Brown, with her clever dances further enhanced her popularity with the Didsbury audience.

At the dance, after the concert, there was a capacity crowd and it proved a splendid climax to an enjoyable evening.

Evangelical Church Notes.

Advances New Idea

If your playmates jeer "sissy" at you, don't feel bad, sonny; they're doing it because they're really the sissies. This kind word came from Dr. Nita Mieth, chairman of the Chicago Association of Individual Psychology. Little boys who yell "sissy" generally do so to hide their conviction that they aren't equal to the one who is derided, she said.

Women, says a librarian, read more than men. That may or may not be so, but they undoubtedly have a greater gift for reading between the lines.

Sanctuary For Boys

Children Pay A Visit To Jack Miner At Kingsville

The press of many countries has told the world of what Jack Miner has accomplished at his home in Kingsville, Ontario—of how he became the pioneer builder of bird sanctuaries, the pioneer in bird banding; Jack Miner who, with little money and no natural advantages but with a profound understanding of the needs and nature of the birds he sought to attract made his home the best loved spot to his feathered friends. In America to-day there are thousands of birds, from martins to the majestic geese, who know and recognize the voice and personality of Jack Miner as a friend; but it is just as true that there are many thousands of people who look back to the days they spent in play in the sanctuary for boys that Jack Miner built many years ago beside his beautiful home. It is this side of Jack Miner's life that is not so generally known. It may be said of him that his love for birds and all Nature is only exceeded by his love for boys. Not only has Jack Miner developed what his friend Ty Cobb has called the most beautiful ball diamond and play grounds in America for the youth of his own community but he has influenced dozens of service clubs and other organizations throughout these two countries to follow the way he has pointed.

I recently motored several hundred miles to be present at a very special event at the Jack Miner Sanctuary—the annual picnic for the underprivileged children of the community, together with their mothers. This memorable event in the lives of scores of kiddies is sponsored by the Lions Club of the town of Kingsville in co-operation with Jack Miner. And what a day it was!

As I stood chatting with one of the business men of the town we studied the faces of those kiddies who were lined up before us, awaiting their turn for a helping of ice cream or other of the many treats. Here were scores of boys and girls—future citizens of Canada: What were they to become? This question can be partly answered when we think that in 20 years thousands of children have played in this Jack Miner Park and in all that time not one of them has ever been spoken to for misconduct. These children love Jack Miner for what he is and does, for his generosity, his simple straight-forwardness, but perhaps above all for his genuine love and understanding of them. These children are different from those we see in so many towns and cities. They are taught to respect property and they respect the love and kindness shown them.

Late in the afternoon we suspended play in the park to feed the birds. We gathered near the margin of the pool and at the sound of Jack Miner's voice dozens of beautiful pure white doves came from every direction. Those of us who put a bit of grain in our hair or on our shoulder were thrilled by the confidence of these beautiful birds that came without hesitation and ate the grain we placed there, while all around us were the waterfowl who were just as eagerly looking for their share. ## Education Over The Air

Public Just Now Seems To Prefer Light Entertainment

The radio public's taste has been shifting from serious to light stuff; or at least it did so change between 1927 and a couple of years ago. This is reported by Frank Ernest Hill in "Listen and Learn," a study of education over the air published by the American Association for Adult Education. In a survey in 1927, light entertainment accounted for 45 per cent. of all broadcasts; serious entertainment, including educational programs, 50 per cent., and special features, five per cent. By 1931 light entertainment had gone up to 55 per cent. and serious entertainment had dropped to 35 per cent. By 1935 the light matter stood at 60 per cent., the serious 25 per cent., the special features 15 per cent. Since 1935 Mr. Hill thinks education may have won back some of the lost ground.—New York Times.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coin or stamps (coin preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

The Society Of Friends

Many Quakers Are Prominent In Well Known Industries

"No one can know Christ without quaking and trembling." This remark, made some 300 years ago by a man named George Fox, established a new religious body—the Quakers.

Known in England as the Society of Friends, the Quakers have done much to promote peace and alleviate the evils of war. What is not generally known is the number of prominent industrialists who are also Quakers.

Barclays and Lloyds Bank were first founded by members of the Society of Friends. They established such trade names as Colman's Mustard, Huntley & Palmer's Biscuits, and Jacobs' Biscuits. Three Quaker families, the Cadburys, Frys and Rowntrees, made fortunes in the chocolate business.

Britain can claim at least 20,000 Quakers. In the world generally, the Society of Friends has 160,000 members. Twice only, in the 300 years of its existence, this deeply religious sect has held a world conference. The first was held in London in 1920; the second in Philadelphia a few weeks ago.

Among the delegates to this world conference was Mr. Barrow Cadbury, a bearded little man, who was chairman of the great chocolate firm until five years ago. His wife, Geraldine, is a Dame of the British Empire, but like most Quakers does not set store on titles.

"I put 'D' on my visiting cards," she admits, "but I wouldn't like to be called Dame."

Energetic Joan Fry of the Bristol chocolate-making family, was also present. The one notable absentee from this great religious gathering was B. Seeborn Rowntree, head of his family and business, who at the last moment was prevented from attending as he had planned.—Pearson's Weekly.

Chief Of All Antiques

Is Central Chimney Used By New Englanders Years Ago

An antique that never appears at auctions, yet certainly the chief of them all in size, weight and general importance, not to say charm and sentimental value, is the old central chimney, often twelve feet square at the base, upon which our New England ancestors depended for life. All other antiques are afterthoughts, auxiliaries and appendages to this great heart of the house, with its major and minor cranes, spits, bake ovens and handwrought iron gadgets. New England might have survived without a single trundle bed, cobbler's bench, highboy, lowboy or Windsor or banister-back chair, but without this fortresslike masonry that split the roof-tree squarely in its centre it certainly would have perished, hardly as it was, some January night at 25 below.

Neo-ruralists who have such a chimney, well supplanted by base-burners, vacuum-vapor heating systems or air-conditioning, nevertheless feel the strength and prestige of the retired patriarch that sheltered early proprietors. They often turn off the radiators in the keeping room on a December night and throw a cord of wood, more or less, into the old eight-foot hearth. Smoke escaping turns into ghosts of those who knew no other warmth nor means of cooking a square meal than this chimney provided for a hundred years, and romantic imagination in its fire-light begins to entertain the old fallacy—that life was somehow nearer content in other times.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Linen Gives Long Wear

Oldest Known Textile On Earth Is Very Durable

Contrary to general opinion, lightweight clothing is not always cooler than heavyweight clothing, says Pearson's Weekly. This is true with linen, which is an excellent conductor of body heat. In the tropics heavy linen is worn, for it is coolest. Since linen is also very absorbent, heavier linen more quickly takes up perspiration than does light. Linen is the oldest known textile on earth and is very durable. The "winding sheet" in King Tutankhamen's tomb was in good condition after having been in the vault 3,000 years.

Wasting Fruit

Giving The Greatest Good To The Greatest Number

The high price of fruit is always rather a sore point with me. I don't mind fancy, wrapped fruit fetching a good, fat price, especially extra early or extra late, but I do kick on behalf of a crowd of people who can't ever, on the incomes they get, enjoy fruit in season in any quantity. It was said a hundred thousand boxes of Wealthy apples were left in the Okanagan unsold as they weren't moved before the Macs came in. If correct, it's nothing short of a crime, when one knows of so many people who have to buy apples two-bits at a time.

It wouldn't take much effort to sell a surplus like that in second-hand apples boxes, old orange or egg crates—anything at all that would hold apples—at a cent or two per pound. I'd take off my hat to that kind of market control any day, for it would be truly to the greatest good of the greatest number. I am positively convinced that there is a market, almost untouched, right at home, for lower grade fruit—to say nothing of potatoes!—for all the fruit fit for consumption.—Kamloops Sentinel.

The Best Is Yet To Be!

Holding To Faith In The Future Of Canada

It is better to look forward than backward, Canadians especially need not fear the future. The depression is disappearing, and soon there should be opportunity for all who are willing to pull their weight in the boat. The world—including Canada—will be what humanity makes it. Those who look for trouble always will find it. Those who seek the ways of peace and industry and who live sensibly will find in this country happiness and a great deal of comfort. The old days probably were all right in their way; but the best is yet to come. "Eyes Front!"

"Quack Remedies"

There is a legion of "cancer cures". Some are put forward by unscrupulous persons greedy for money. Others are exploited by the ignorant who have been led to believe that they have a cure. A cure for cancer may vary from the harmless kind, such as sorrel or violet leaves or molasses and a host of others, to the highly injurious made of tartar emetic, arsenic and sulphate of zinc. Some are taken by the mouth; others are for external use. They appear as fluids, pills, ointments, pastes, plasters and special appliances.

Qualified medical men have been known to exploit this and that serum or other type of cure. So-called electrical appliances are included in the armament of the cancer-cures. Faith healing, Christian Science, special diets, compression of the cancerous mass, injection of various matters into the tumour have all promised a cure. When the writer was secretary of the Ontario Royal Commission on Cancer, he had hundreds of these "cures" brought to him. In every case the inventor was looking for money. In no case was he or she, willing to disclose the secret in order that the cure might scientifically be tested.

The best that can be said of some of these measures is that they do no harm to the patient beyond the raising of false hopes and the delaying of rational treatment. Of others it must be said that they cause much pain and discomfort and hasten the inevitable end. Of all of these quack remedies it is true that they are a waste of money and of precious time. A few weeks delay in the use of quack remedy may suffice to convert a curable cancer into one for which nothing can be done because it has come to the doctor too late.

It is not the ignorant alone who pursue the will-o-the-wisp of the cancer "cure". Its adherents are seen not only among the uneducated and unintelligent, but among the well-educated and highly intelligent. There is a motto among those who are interested in the problem of cancer. It is: "Fight Cancer With Knowledge." The more the public learn and know about cancer the sooner will fear of the malady disappear. There was scarcely a dent made in the armour of tuberculosis until, about 30 years ago, Anti-tuberculosis Societies began the education of the public in the control of the White Plague.

Knowledge of the magnificent results gained from the early treatment of cancer by means of surgery and irradiation will give the cancer victim courage in the fight against this deadly foe. The cancer patient has nothing to gain by recourse to cancer cures. On the contrary he has much to lose by the waste of time involved in the trial of such remedies.

Making Use Of Mud

At last a use for mud dredged from the bottom of the constantly silted Demerara River has been found. The Government of Georgetown has decided to use the mud to build up the level of Georgetown, which is below sea-level. The grey mud, it was found by experiments in England, was employable also in the making of paving and building bricks.

House ferns thrive better in partial shade.

IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK AT WORK

when you've found a way to ease the pains of

and do it the inexpensive way, too.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is "Aspirin".

Simply take 2 "Aspirin" tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions. Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for "Aspirin". "Aspirin" tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited, of Windsor, Ontario. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

WHAT HO!

—By—
RICHARD CONNELL

By Arrangement With Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

CHAPTER I.—Continued

"It's not a question of price," said Ernest. "That's a fair enough offer considering that I started this business with nothing but a capital of twenty-nine dollars, my diploma from the MacGrudger College of Taxidermy, and six white mice. But, you see, Mr. Slocum, this is more than just a business to me. It is—"

Ernest blushed, "what you might call my life-work. Maybe you'll laugh at me, Mr. Slocum, when I tell you that the money I make here is really secondary to the pleasure I get out of doing jobs like this—"

He patted the mane of the horse Tartar.

"Of course," he appended, "I don't make very much money. Barely enough to live on, as a matter of fact."

"Ernie," said Mr. Slocum, sadly, "I'm afraid you'll never be a trader. Now, if somebody came to me and wanted to buy my business do you think I'd tell 'em I was dragging one foot in the red ink? No, sir! I'd tell 'em I was making so much money I had to hire a man and boy to count it."

Ernest smiled.

"I guess I'm not much of a businessman," he admitted.

The shop bell tinkled.

"Excuse me," he said. "A customer, I hope."

He opened the door and permitted Mr. Slocum to pass into an atmosphere redolent with the perfume of parrots and poodles. A large, patently impatient lady was waiting at the counter. At first sight she looked like one of Ernest Bingley's more pretentious efforts in the field of taxidermy, for her ample, well cushioned form was swathed in the brown fur of that prolific but expensive little animal, the mink.

Ernest Bingley made a courtly bow.

"How do you do, Mrs. Wyncoop?" he said.

"Hello, Armina, how's tricks?" said Mr. Slocum.

She favored them both with a nod that was one-fifth of an inch from top to bottom, and hoary with frost.

"Wish I could stay and have a chat about old times, Armina," said Mr. Slocum, a look of malicious geniality crinkling his face, "but I got to go and sell some shoes to the folks who believe in patronizing home-town merchants. So long."

From Mrs. Wyncoop's arctic expression it was possible to glean the thought that if Mr. Slocum went to a most remote and torrid spot and remained there indefinitely it would be entirely satisfactory to her.

When the door had snapped at the rubber heels of the departing shoeist, Mrs. Wyncoop said, "Is he ready?"

"Indeed he is, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I shall be happy to have you inspect him. Will you kindly step into the studio?"

Mrs. Wyncoop unleashed a lorgnette and gazed upon the fruit of many weeks of painstaking work. She said nothing. She looked nothing. By not so much as the quiver of a chin did she signify approval, or disapproval. Ernest regarded her expectantly, nervously. Still she made no comment.

Finally Ernest faltered, "Well, do you like him?"

In a throaty alto Mrs. Wyncoop said,

"There's a patch of hair on his—errrr—torso which needs smoothing."

NO TERRIBLE HEADACHE NOW

Found Quick, Sure Way to End Them

It's fortunate that a great Canadian doctor made the famous fruit, herb and tonic remedy, Fruit-a-tives, Mr. C.D., Toronto, writes, "I was bothered with very severe headaches. Pain on top of head and in forehead was more than I could bear. My doctor advised me to take Fruit-a-tives. Since then I have not had any trouble with headaches." When you take Fruit-a-tives, your liver is cleansed. Stomach, kidneys and intestines work naturally. Poisons and wastes go. Food nourishes. Health comes. 25c. and 50c. All druggists.

FRUIT-A-TIVES LIVER TABLETS

"So sorry," said Ernest. He had ruffled the hair in scrambling off the horse. He smoothed the offending patch. He waited, but no word of encomium was forthcoming.

She replaced her lorgnette in its holster.

"Deliver him to The Pines immediately," she said, and turned to go.

"Excuse me, Mrs. Wyncoop," said Ernest. "I want to ask you something."

She expelled an icy monosyllable.

"Well?"

"I was just wondering," began Ernest, beset by embarrassment, "if you would mind, that is, if you would be so good as to permit me to exhibit Tartar at the state fair next month—"

"Why, pray?"

"Well, you see," said Ernest, "I sort of thought I'd exhibit some of my work there. I've got an idea for an exhibit, a complete collection of all the birds and animals native to Iowa, mounted and arranged by me. There's a prize, you know, for the most interesting exhibit of Iowa products, and I thought I might have a chance to win it. I could use that hundred dollars, Mrs. Wyncoop. My collection is pretty complete, but it lacks a buzzard and a horse. I can get the buzzard easily enough, but horses are scarce—stuffed ones, I mean—and so—"

"You may not exhibit Tartar," said Mrs. Wyncoop. "I can assure you that Mr. Wyncoop will not permit you to. Good-day."

"But," protested Ernest, "he is my work—the best thing I've ever done—and if you'd loan him to me—just for that week—"

"You will be paid adequately for your work," said Mrs. Wyncoop, "when you deliver it to The Pines. But if you attempt to show our property, you will hear from our attorneys, I promise you."

"But, see here, Mrs. Wyncoop, I need—"

"Good day to you," she cut in, and strode out through the pet shop toward her waiting limousine.

"Oh, look out!" cried Ernest.

"You're an old witch," croaked a harsh voice.

Mrs. Wyncoop gave a sharp squeal of pain and terror.

As she passed his perch, a second hand parrot, an African gray, thrust out his horny beak and nipped her on the ear.

When she had gone, Ernest gave the parrot a peanut.

Then he returned to his studio and gave the roan coat of Tartar a final smoothing.

"Good-by old boy," he said.

He took an old olive drab army blanket from his bed and put it on the horse.

"Why," he asked aloud, "can't people be nicer?"

With the question unanswered, he went out into his pet shop, and, somewhat morosely, doled out to the tropical fish their rations of ant-eaters, patted and fed the assorted puppies, love-birds, white mice and guinea pigs, then locked up and started down Main Street to see the expressman about a truck for transporting Tartar to the ornate residence of Mr. Otis G. Wyncoop.

To go down Main Street was always a bit of an ordeal for Ernest Bingley. It meant running the gantlet of such social centres as the Daniel Boone Hook and Ladder Company, Munn's Drug Store, the New America House, and Doc Griffin's Pool Room.

With his head in the air Ernest sailed swiftly past the fire house, unobserved, for its inmates were playing pinochle while hopefully waiting for a good, big fire. He skirted the drug store without incident; but, in the door-way of the pool hall, lounge two young men-about-town, from whose nostrils poured cigarette smoke in as steady a stream as if wet hay were smoldering inside them. They wore short-brimmed, trigger-men hats, and their complexions were imperfect. On spying Ernest they removed their jaunty headgear and swept the ground in deep obeisances.

"Greetings and salutations, Sir Ernest," said one.

"Hi si, 'ow is 'is Lordship to-day?" said the other.

Ernest, with a struggle, summoned a smile to his face.

"Hello, Joe. Hello, Chuck," he said, affably.

He hurried on, trying not to keep step with the Rogue's March they whistled after him.

In the lobby of the New America House (Rooms $1 and up) two men were embedded in worn leather chairs, idly watching the passing pageant of Main Street through the broad plate-glass window.

One of them was Harry Lewis, on the road for a New York hat house, and he was yawning, gold-toothed, at the idea of being stymied for the night in Bear Falls when he might have been taking out that red-headed cigar-stand girl in Davenport. He was an eagle-beaked, jockey-like man in a tight-pepper-green suit, and a Super-Wonder Derby (Pall Mall Style, $2.95, retail), and the stub of a cold cigar seemed a permanent part of his hairy hand. The other lobby-sitter was a native son, one of the Ten Thousand, and he had the silvery hair, the intellectual brow, the dignity and garb of a senator. His name was Samuel P. Cooke, and he had been out of work for twenty years, although his wife hadn't. Messrs. Lewis and Cooke were exchanging recipes for winning the favor of ladies met casually on railroad trains.

"What do you do for fun in this burg?" inquired Lewis.

"I'll show you," said Cooke. "Here comes the town clown."

"The punk in the comic hat?" asked Lewis.

"Yep."

"Why are those two petty-larceny sheiks bowing to him like that?"

"They're kidding him."

"Some fun," grunted Lewis. "Does that pass for kidding in this dorp?"

"Just wait," promised Cooke. "I'll call him in. All you got to do is follow my lead. Get it?"

"I get it," said Lewis, looking wise and metropolitan. "Who is the sap?"

"Bingley's his name, Ernest Bingley," Cooke told him.

"Cuckoo?"

"No. That is, not exactly. He's bright enough when it comes to books and stuff like that," said Cooke. "But he's full of nutty notions."

"Such as?"

"Well, he thinks he's somebody."

"Who?" queried Lewis. "Napoleon?"

"Oh, no. He's not that way," said Cooke. "Just thinks he's got ancestors."

"Well, ain't he?" asked Lewis.

"Sure. So have I," said Cooke. "Only I keep mine quiet. So do most of the folks around here. But Ernie Bingley's different. The boys don't like you to be different in this man's town."

"Yeah, I noticed everybody was pretty much alike around here," said Lewis.

As Ernest passed the hotel, Cooke rapped on the window with his imitation diamond ring, and beckoned Ernest to come in. Ernest hesitated, then started into the lobby.

"Now watch me kid the pants off him," whispered Cooke.

"How do you do, Mr. Cooke?" said Ernest Bingley. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"Why, yes, there is, Ernest, my boy," said Cooke, with exaggerated cordiality. "I want you to meet the Duke of Lumbago."

Lewis extended a limp hand and murmured "Howjerdo?" He had seen cinema aristocrats.

"It is an honor to welcome you to Bear Falls, your grace," said Ernest, shaking the hand.

"Much obliged," said the duke.

"The duke," explained Cooke, "is here on a secret mission. Know what I mean?"

Ernest nodded.

"The duke," went on Cooke "is here to see about having the royal collection of wild animals stuffed. He heard about the good work you do, Ernest, and he thinks maybe you're the man for the job."

"That's very flattering," said Ernest.

Cooke turned to Lewis.

"How many animals will you want stuffed, duke?" he inquired.

"Several gross," answered Lewis.

"How many elephants?"

"Three."

"Tigers?"

"Four," said Lewis. "And a half dozen lions."

"Bears?"

"A pair of bears," said Lewis.

"How are you on bears, Mr. Bingley?"

"Fair," said Ernest.

"Splendid, old chap, splendid," said Lewis.

"Now, Ernest," said Cooke, "suppose you go home and figure out an estimate for stuffing and mounting three elephants, four tigers, a half dozen lions, and a pair of bears. Then send in your bid. Is that okay by you, duke?"

"Absolutely okey-doke," said the duke. "Just send the bid to me, care of the king, London."

"Hey, Sam," called the desk clerk, "your wife wants you on the phone."

"Why are wives?" grumbled Cooke, and waddled to the phone booth. Ernest watched his bulk ooze into it.

"Poor old fellow," said Ernest.

"The only fun he has is making fun of other people."

"Huh?" said Lewis, sharply.

"Oh, I don't mind his little jokes," said Ernest. "This one will make him happy for days. Please don't let him know I know. Good-day, sir."

Ernest went on his way.

Presently Cooke returned from the telephone, his portly frame shaking with chuckles.

"Some boob," he said.

"Yeah," said Lewis. "Some boob."

Editorial -

C. E. JOHNSON, M.P. for Bow Valley, in speaking at a Social Credit meeting held in Didsbury last Wednesday evening, said, "If you make a statement often enough you will get the people to believe it."

E. P. Foster, M.L.A., apparently is following out this theory when he made the mis-statement that "every newspaper in Alberta is controlled by finance." True, the weekly newspapers of Alberta have published advertisements for financial institutions, which have always been paid for, but in our long experience in newspaper work we have never known of any financial institution attempting to influence the policy of a weekly newspaper, or even demanding that free publicity be given.

We are often asked to give free publicity for local organizations, but no organization has ever asked for or been given, as much free publicity as the Social Credit organization.

If printing and being paid for advertisements from large corporations constitute a control, we claim that we are less controlled by finance than Mr. Foster himself, as he is an agent for that big financial corporation, the Imperial Oil Co.

Mr. Foster also stated, in regard to the press bill, that all the government asked was that the newspapers give equal amount of space to deny any mis-statement as the amount of space the article making the mis-statement took. If this is correct, why was it not so stated in the Act? And he also said that they would supply "scoops," which he described as "advance news." We had samples of the so-called "scoops." After being assured by the "director of public relations" that the matter forwarded for publication would be non-political, we found in the bulletins sent two lengthy speeches by M.L.A.'s, made in the legislative assembly weeks previously. We wonder if these are the government's idea of "scoops?"

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. STRANGE

"By selfish and short-sighted husbandry prairie farmers have mined their land and ruined their soil."

"Great Britain, therefore, can no longer rely upon Western Canada to supply her with foodstuffs; consequently, by means of tariffs and quotas, British farmers must be protected and encouraged to increase their home production of wheat and other foods."

These are studied statements that have been made recently over and over again by Mr. A. G. Street, former Manitoba homesteader, noted English farmer and distinguished writer of novels on agricultural subjects.

Mr. Street's articles appeared in the "Financial Post" of Toronto, and in the "London Daily Telegraph." They were broadcast by radio over Great Britain and then published in the "Listener," the British Broadcasting Corporation's journal.

I, for one, regard Mr. Street's statements as a definite libel on Western Canada and on our prairie farmers. The statements are simply untrue.

Our farmers are not soil miners, they are not ruining the land, they are good husbandmen.

Careful investigations made into rainfall and yields by the research department of the Searle Grain Co. indicate clearly that whenever our prairies enjoy good rains, then do our fields once again become fertile and yield up beautiful crops.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Wet weather threatens early Australian harvest -- United States makes corn loans -- Ecuador authorizes wheat imports -- Moisture reserve very deficient in much of Kansas -- Spain obtains Italian wheat -- Oklahoma pecan crop badly damaged by worms.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Harvest commences in Argentina -- Tentative Australian wheat estimate 163 million -- Rains benefit growing crops in Argentina -- United States winter wheat acreage practically same as last year's large acreage -- Critical industrial situation in the United States -- Australian shipments continue on a liberal scale -- Almond crop for 1937 largest ever produced in California.

Editor's Vision To Be Realized on World Cruise

The above picture showing the Empress of Britain and Sydney's great harbor bridge represents the dream of an Australian editor, who in making the composite picture from separate photographs at the time the bridge was opened could not have known that the Empress would ever visit the port "down under." Captioned "Splendid Empire Achievements" the picture showed the greatest single-span bridge ever built within the Empire and the ocean liner which, launched a year previously was, at the time, the largest ship built in the Empire since the war.

Now comes the announcement that the Empress of Britain will visit Sydney during her 1937 Round-the-World Cruise, and with it the realization that, when the ship is there next April, at least one editor's dream will have come true.

Not only Sydney will be visited while the big white liner is in the Antipodes; she will also take her cruise members to Melbourne and to the New Zealand ports of Wellington and Auckland. Her cruise starts from New York January 8 and will end there on May 16. Until heading for Australia she will follow the usual world cruise course. -- Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers, Naples, Athens, Palestine, Egypt, India, Ceylon, the Straits Settlements, Siam and Hong Kong. Leaving New Zealand she will go to the Fiji Islands, also new territory for her World Cruise, Honolulu, San Francisco, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal Zone.

Trees Available*For Farmers

With reference to the very important function of tree planting in Alberta, it was learned in an interview given today by the Honourable N. E. Tanner, Minister of Lands and Mines, that certain species of trees are available to farmers for transplanting in existing bluffs and the extension of windbreaks. These trees may be secured on application from the Forestry Division of the Department.

The principal object in view, Mr. Tanner stated, was to provide transplants of the more durable species for planting in natural bluffs, shelter belts and windbreaks. A number of the native varieties now found in existing bluffs are not as durable as desired and the introduction of exotic species will give the desired longer life to these bluffs. Necessary protection will be given also to the existing trees in providing shade, thus ensuring a healthy and more permanent growth.

The Minister stated that there is available for planting in the spring of 1938 a large quantity of lodgepole pine, green ash, and nordman fir and a limited quantity of white spruce and elm. There is also a considerable number of bur and red oak available for distribution. The province has been experimenting with these two latter species for several years, and it has found that they can be successfully grown in Alberta.

To avoid any possible confusion, application forms should be secured from the Director of Forestry, Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton. These forms should be properly filled out as to quantity and species desired, and should be returned to the Department not later than the end of the year for trees for planting in the spring of 1938.

Items of Interest

Turner Valley oil companies marketing their oil to the Royalite and British American marketing companies will only be permitted to dispose of 35 percent of the capacity production of each well, until further notice, it was announced last week. Last September, wells were prorated to 65 percent by the Royalite and British American companies. On the first of this month, proration to 45 percent of capacity came into effect. Now there is a further ten percent reduction in the amount of oil the marketing companies will purchase.

Relief agreements for the continuation of the $180,000 a month grant have been received from Ottawa, signed by Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, according to Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, Minister of Health and in charge of relief. The minister said that he had also signed the agreements. There is no change in the amount over that which has been in force for the last several months, the new agreement being merely a continuation of the old. The documents, with Dr. Cross' signature, will be returned to Ottawa.

Treat Colds This PROVED Way

WHY experiment? Vicks Vapo-Rub has been doubly proved for you . . . proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind; further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (See full details in each VapoRub package.)

Only Vicks give you such proof. VapoRub is the direct external treatment. No dosing—no risk of stomach upsets. Simply massage it on the throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Relief starts almost at once. You begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub starts working direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors—released by the warmth of the body—are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion.

Repeat treatment at bedtime. After restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps right on working, hour after hour. Often, by morning, the worst of the cold is over.

Freedom With Tolerance

Those much cherished and dearly bought attributes of democracy, freedom of thought and freedom of speech, will never be imperilled as long as they are accompanied by sincere and earnest efforts to practise the responsibilities and reasonable restraint which the enjoyment of these privileges entails.

The duty of preserving these rights which the people of this country enjoy in such large measure devolves not only upon the individual but upon all who have the direction of the channels employed to give expression to human thought and utterance—the pulpit, the press, the school, the theatre, radio, the meeting place and even the home.

As long as these media of expression have full cognizance of their responsibility for the maintenance of free thought and free speech and exercise that responsibility in a proper spirit of tolerance and restraint, the privilege of free thought and free speech will remain a right to be enjoyed. If not, the danger arises that these rights will become a privilege only and the privilege of the few.

Undoubtedly Sir Edward Beatty had something of the kind in mind recently when, addressing convocation at McGill University, he appealed for freedom of thought and freedom of speech "but within the limits of accurate knowledge, sound logic, a sense of responsibility and the ordinary amenities of public life in a civilized community."

While Sir Edward Beatty, at the time, was applying the general principles he was enunciating, to the universities as leaders of thought in the communities they serve, the admonition he was conveying has a much broader application, for while these institutions of learning, exert a strong influence on present and future trends of thought and utterance, so also have these other agencies to which reference has already been made.

In fact, it might perhaps be urged, with little fear of contradiction, that some of them and particularly the radio and the press, exert a much greater influence on the calibre of citizenship of the present day and the future and, hence, the type of government that will guide the destinies of the country, than do the universities.

The reason for such a statement is not far to seek, for the newspapers and the radio are presenting viewpoints day in and day out the year round to a vast audience of all ages and of all classes, whereas direct contact of the universities is limited to youth for brief periods of three or four or five years, and within those periods for only a portion of the year, and their direct influence is further confined to a class of youth whose parents can afford the fees of a college education or who are sufficiently ambitious to find the wherewithal for the expense from their own efforts.

Hence, if the responsibility imposed on the universities to safeguard democratic rights, including free thought and free speech is great, how much greater is the responsibility of the radio and the press.

To date little or no grounded complaint has been heard that radio has not lived up to its obligations in this respect and it is to be hoped and expected that the recently-organized Canadian Broadcasting Commission will keep this objective in mind, that is that while free expression of opinion broadcast in the form of speeches through the ether is highly desirable, so also is the use of restraint and the exercise of a spirit of toleration, whether the topic be political, religious, social or economic.

The same obligation, including that of respect for the opinions of minorities, rests squarely on the shoulders of the press of the country, both daily and weekly, and as long as these organs of opinion fulfil this trust there is little likelihood of the people of this country acquiescing in attempts to muzzle the newspapers or dictate their policies.

It has often been said that a free press is the bulwark of democracy and so it is. It will continue to occupy the proud post of defender of the democratic faith as long as it continues to exercise moderation, tolerance and respect for the rights of others.

Almost without exception the weekly newspapers of Western Canada have a fine record in this respect and that is the reason they exert a profound influence in the communities which they serve. There is no reason to suppose that in the future they will not continue to carry the torch of democratic freedom and perpetuate the fine example they are giving to the press in countries which are not so fortunate as the Canadian west.

From time to time highly deserved tributes have been paid by those in authority and others, to the independent but tolerant spirit reflected in the columns of the weekly newspapers of the prairie provinces. In doing their duty in assisting to uphold the fundamentals of democracy the weekly newspapers have set a high standard and are doing much to foster and maintain a high standard of citizenship and to fortify their own position in the hearts and minds of the people.

Still In Its Infancy

Televised Pictures Seen In New York Were Blurred

Television pictures broadcast from the National Broadcasting Company's transmitter atop the Empire State Building were flashed across fifteen city blocks to be projected on a 3-by-4-foot screen to entertain members of the Society of Motion-Picture Engineers assembled at Radio City.

For the first time in New York home-movie-size "telepictures" were publicly demonstrated on the enlarged screen. They were made possible by a projection tube developed by D. R. R. Law of the R. C. A. Manufacturing Company. Up to now the 7-by-10-inch radio image has been the general standard.

The large picture was viewed in a dark room. The image was foggy and its associated sound indistinct compared with a 7-by-10-inch talking picture, also demonstrated.

Veteran motion picture engineers commented as they watched a pianist perform on the large screen, that "television is still in its infancy." They saw the need for much simplification of the apparatus, which at the current state of development is too cumbersome for the parlor, looking more like an electric furnace than a radio receiving set.

For Peaceful Ventures

Practically Every War Instrument Could Be Put To Better Use

Apparently Sir Hubert Wilkins, during his recent search for the lost Russian flyers, was preoccupied part of the time with other thoughts than those of rescue. He has developed his scheme for an undersea carrying trade, conducted by submarine, over the roof of the world.

How practicable his scheme is we would not presume to say, but one thought struck us in this regard. If Sir Hubert's plan ever materializes, it will be the first time the submarine has ever been used extensively in any peaceful venture. The submarine is a sinister craft, at the present time, essentially an instrument of death. It may yet come to serve the needs of humanity, instead of threatening to wreck civilization.

There is a moral here, which humanity, deplorably, will not heed—that almost every ingredient of destruction has a civilized utility, and that the stupidity of man alone stands in the way of its peaceful employment.—Hamilton Spectator.

Makes Him Feel Better

Wisconsin Man Starts His Twenty-Seventh Winter In Bed

Arthur E. ("Turkey") Gehmke, the hibernating barkeeper of Watertown, Wisconsin, has bedded down for the winter. Beginning his 27th winter retreat, Gehmke locked himself in his bedroom on the second floor of his tavern and denied himself to visitors. Even tapping on a water pipe from the main floor failed to bring a response.

Gehmke's bartenders said he was out of circulation until spring. Meals will be sent up by dumbwaiter.

Gehmke began retiring for the winter when he was stricken with a stomach ailment many years ago. He found that by staying in bed he felt better, and ever since then has passed the cold months in a horizontal position.

Passing Away Time

Reciting Poetry Is Fine Way States Irish Dramatist

Every school child should be made to learn at least 100 poems by heart as some protection against the tedium of life in later years, said Padraic Colum, Irish poet and dramatist. "No finer way of passing an hour of enforced idleness can be found than by reciting to one's self some of the great classics," he said in an address. "The time used in pacing a railroad station platform while waiting for a train can be made to seem as nothing in this manner."

Is Automatically Set

Cheese Spray Entices Mice To Most Modern Trap

The modern mouse must be getting to be a pretty sharp fellow—at least, judging by the tricky gadgets being invented these days to catch them.

One of the latest is described by Roy C. Burns, managing director of the National Inventors' congress.

"It is irresistible to the first mouse and when he enters he automatically sets it for the second mouse," explained Mr. Burns. "The first sees in front of him a modernized mouse hole, sprayed with cheese perfume, thin and elusive at the entrance and stronger toward the end of the hole. He enters a hallway and looks into a lighted mirror, and he thinks his reflection is another mouse. Losing all caution, he moves into a glassed-in compartment full of mirrors, but he discovers the cheese is in another transparent chamber, and he stops to cogitate. Another mouse outside looks in and sees a dozen mice—a whole convention—so he comes in, too. Another grate drops, and so it goes."

Canada's Position

Should Co-operate With Great Britain And The Empire

Where do we go from here? Some would have us play "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" and make faces at Mother Britannia merely to show that Canada is a grown-up, independent girl. Others, with more realism, see that good sense no less than sentiment requires that we co-operate with Great Britain and the Commonwealth.

And the overwhelming majority of Canadian, French-speaking or English-speaking, desire that co-operation within the free institutions of the Empire. Of course, Canada comes first, but loyalty to Canada does not require that the Empire should always come a bad last. The same policy for Canada is one of free co-operation with Britain—not just kicking.—Winnipeg Tribune.

ALICE STEVENS' RECIPES

TOUGH CUTS OF MEAT CAN BE MADE TENDER

Tough cuts of meat are avoided by many people because they find the meat is not satisfactory. It lacks flavor and is hard to chew. This is because the meat is not properly cooked.

As a matter of fact the tough cuts of meat have a finer flavor than tender cuts in many cases and there is certainly a great difference in cost. Extractives give meat its characteristic flavor and there is a greater quantity of extractives in the tough cuts than in the tender cuts. The quantity of connective tissue in the animal determines the toughness of the cuts. Age and exercise help to develop this. Veal is more tender than beef because of the difference in the age of the animal. The tender cuts such as Sirloin steak are found along the back, because these muscles are used very little.

Cooking tough cuts to make them tender is simply a matter of softening this connective tissue. There are four rules given for this.

Cook the meat slowly for a long time. Pot roasts require from 30 to 40 minutes to the pound, while oven roasts require 20 minutes to the pound. Tough cuts are used for the pot roasts and the additional time helps to soften the connective tissue. Cook in a tightly covered pot so that the steam can help with the cooking.

Grind the meat. This breaks up the connective tissue. Meat for hamburger steak is put through a meat grinder.

Pound the meat. This lessens the connective tissue. Sprinkle the meat with a little flour before pounding. The flour absorbs some of the juices and helps retain the flavor.

Cook the meat with an acid. The acid acts on the connective tissue and softens it. For this reason, tomatoes are often cooked with tough cuts of meat.

Try this recipe for apple rings. It makes an attractive garnish and adds to the tastiness of a meat dish.

APPLE RINGS

Wash and core apples but do not peel. Cut in half inch slices. Heat frying pan and add fat such as lard, butter or drippings from a roast of beef or pork. Fry the apple rings in this fat. Sprinkle with salt and sugar. Turn and brown on both sides. Attempt frying only one layer of rings at a time. Serve with roast pork or sausages.

HE WAS ALWAYS TIRED AND ILL

Three Complaints Gave Him a Miserable Time

Suffering from three complaints—disordered kidneys, sciatica, and rheumatism, how could this man be anything else but always tired and ill? This is what he writes:—

"Up to a month or so ago, I had suffered continually from kidney disorder, sciatica, rheumatism, and generally felt off colour. I was constantly tired, and under medical supervision. I tried many remedies, but without effect until I gave Kruschen Salts a trial. In four weeks, Kruschen has brought about a complete transformation. I have a healthy appetite and once more feel that it is good to be alive."—S.V.N.

The kidneys are the filters of the human machine. If they become sluggish, impurities find their way into the blood-stream, and the seed of half-a-dozen common ailments is sown.

The scientific combination of salts in Kruschen quickly coaxes the kidneys back to healthy, normal action. Soon your ailments are relieved and life becomes a joy again.

An Absurd Contention

That Motor Cars Require Dazzling Lights On Highways

Once again the headlines announce that blinding headlights are responsible for another highway tragedy.

It is an old, old story.

But why should there be blinding headlights? Who is responsible for their existence? Has not science found a way to minimize the spreading glare of lights that destroy sight?

Truly it is absurd to say it has not. Equally absurd is the contention that motor cars require such dazzling and excessive road illumination.

There is, then, a first responsibility for their existence. It rests on manufacturers. But there is a second responsibility which rests upon drivers. No car of to-day is without, or should be without, the switch which dims lights below the blinding point. No driver should be so careless, so inconsiderate as to fall to use it as traffic demands.—Buffalo Courier Express.

A MISTAKE TO WAIT

WHEN "ACID INDIGESTION" STARTS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkaliizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

MADE IN CANADA

No Soil Deterioration And West Will Continue To Yield Crops As Good As Ever

"I have unbounded faith in the West. I don't believe we shall ever again in our lifetime face as serious a drouth situation as we have had during the past few years. And I say deliberately after seven years of careful research, that there is no evidence whatever of soil deterioration or loss of fibre. When the rains come, we shall get the same crops that we had before."

These were statements of Major H. G. L. Strange, director of research for the Searle Grain Company, at a dinner meeting of the young men's section, Winnipeg board of trade.

Major Strange gave an address entitled, "The West Answers Back," in which he rejected the "gratuitous, useless and often definitely harmful advice" which some easterners offer to the western farmers and dismissed as ignorant nonsense the charge of A. G. Stret, British publicist, who in a recent broadcast at London accused the prairie farmers of selfish, short-sighted husbandry.

Two real ways in which the east might help the western farmer, he urged, were the lowering of the tariff and the reduction of the cost of goods which the western farmers have to purchase from eastern manufacturers. These goods are now 34 per cent. higher in price than before the war, he said.

It was ignorant to speak of "the western farm lands" as if they were all one unit. Three distinct types of soil were under cultivation in the prairies and they had been accurately classified by Captain Palliser in 1858 as the fertile belt, the semi-arid belt and the arid belt.

The first two belts comprised a block of 24 million acres which is unrivalled in the world for the production of high quality wheat and is likely to remain so.

Only the arid belt—four million acres mainly in central eastern Alberta and central southern Saskatchewan—is definitely unsuited for wheat-growing and should be turned back into ranching, for which it is ideal country, he argued.

"We depend absolutely on wheat to-day, and I believe we should continue to depend on wheat," he added. "We have a great advantage in the world market in wheat but in mixed farming we could not compete with highly specialized rivals, such as the Argentine meat farmers and the Danish bacon-farmers."

The notion that soil was depleted by "selfish husbandry" or even by constant use was amply disproved by the history of China, the oldest farming country in the world, where there are many areas very similar to our arid belt.

Irrigation as a solution for the drouth problem was impracticable, because it did not pay.

The theory that the planting of trees would increase rainfall had been exploded. They were, however, of great assistance in keeping poultry and livestock in small quantities for the individual farmer's consumption.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Will Exhibit At Glasgow

Canada Decides To Have Pavilion At Next Empire Show

Canada has definitely decided she will have a pavilion at the Empire Exhibition in Glasgow next year, according to Major J. G. Parmelee, the Dominion's deputy minister of trade and commerce.

Major Parmelee inspected the exhibition grounds and said the site on which the Canadian pavilion will be built has been chosen. It will cover an area of 24,000 square feet.

A. T. Seaman, assistant commissioner of the Canadian Government exhibition commission, accompanied the deputy minister on the visit.

Might Use Women Aviators

Great Britain will probably use women fliers if there is another war, Lady Drummond Hay, noted aviatrix, said as she arrived in New York for a lecture tour on "Personalities of Famous Men." "The last time I renewed my flying license my entire history was taken," she said. "There is no doubt England intends to use women fliers, probably as dispatch carriers and on air transports."

Is Still Appreciated

People In Edinburgh Check Watches By Time Gun

In response to an inquirer, some interesting facts relating to Edinburgh's time gun have been made known by Messrs. James Ritchie & Sons, the firm who are responsible for its maintenance.

The time gun is 76 years old, having marked the hour of one (except on Sundays and general holidays) since 1861. It is interesting to learn that the idea of the gun originated with Mr. Hewat, a native of the city, who had seen a gun in Paris fired by means of the rays of the sun. Having regard to the vagaries of weather and to the discrepancy between clock time and sun time it may safely be said that the Edinburgh time gun is much more reliable than the Paris gun which suggested it.

Wireless signals sent out by the B.E.C. and public clocks synchronized with Greenwich may be said to have dispensed with the need for the gun, which to some people is rather nerve wracking; but one only needs to be in the streets, when the gun shot is the signal to many to check their watches, to realize that the gun is still appreciated by both visitors and citizens.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Vanishing Bird

Passing Of The Great Condor Of California

Once the great condor of California ranged the Pacific Coast from the Golden Gate to Vancouver. Now it is never seen north of Monterey. The National Association of Audubon Societies and the Federal Department of Agriculture fear the imperial bird is making its last stand under the pressure of modern civilization. They would like, were it practicable, to prolong its declining days in some mountain sanctuary.

The condor has been eating himself out of house and home. Its appetite is as impressive as its gigantic frame. One observer notes that an Andean condor in captivity would eat as much as 18 pounds of meat a day. The California condor is a close cousin of the Peruvian bird, and no whit behind it as a banqueter. It likes its meat raw and gamy and plentiful. It can, if need be, do its own butchering, but it prefers to find a carcass ready for its huge beak and powerful talons.

From tip to tip its powerful pinions stretch a full 10 feet, and the clouds must be high indeed upon which the condor's shadow is not cast.—Chicago Daily News.

Costly For Railroads

Dining Cars Are Somewhat Of A Worry To Officials

Despite the high cost of foods in dining cars of trains, railroads are steadily losing money—some $10,000,000 annually—and superintendents of the dining cars met in Washington to discuss the problem.

Nearly fifty of the superintendents, called to Washington by John T. Finnegan, dining car superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, discussed the high cost of food. Like good housewives, they have the prices of food at their fingertips and know just where they stand. But they have more of a problem than the housewife. There are some 900-odd dining cars operated daily. For each person served a dining car travels four miles. And it costs seven cents a mile to haul the car.

A Cheaper Way

The woman broadcaster invited to appear in television decided to have the shape of her nose altered first. So she called on a beauty surgeon.

"How much will you charge to alter the shape of my nose?" she asked.

"A hundred guineas, madam."

"A hundred guineas!" she exploded, "isn't there something less expensive?"

"Well," replied the surgeon, suavely, "you could try walking into a lamp-post."

Have A Long History

Expedition To Mesopotamia Collected Rattles Used In 2600 B.C.

Rattles, such as are used to pacify babies, have a long history. Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, is in possession of several children's rattles, made of pottery, dating back to 2600 B.C. Some of these are in the shape of animals, such as hedgehogs or goats, while others are very similar in form to those used to-day. They are hollow and contain one or more pebbles, which make the noise.

These rattles are from the ancient city of Kish, and were excavated by the Field Museum-Oxford University Joint Expedition to Mesopotamia. One of these rattles might have belonged to Sargon of Akkad, whose youthful days were spent in Kish, or perhaps to a playmate of this founder of a great dynasty, according to Richard A. Martin, curator of Near Eastern archaeology.

Also in the collection is a whistle, and models of chariots. In general, outside of modern Europe and America, rattles have been used more by adults than by children. In India, however, native children are given rattles to play with. Among the Chinese, various sorts of bronze rattles were formerly used as musical instruments, and the Museum has on exhibition a set of this type of rattles which was used by an ancient Chinese military orchestra.

A large and varied collection of rattles used in the magical rituals of African tribes is on display in the halls of African ethnology. Various tribes of American Indians used rattles similarly in religious ceremonies.

The Modern Salute

Comes Through Loud Speaker And Not From Battleship's Guns

A salute of thirteen guns greeted Major General Frank R. McCoy on his visit to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, but never before did the thunders of welcome so fill the heavens.

The reason was that we live in a modern world. The salute did not come from a battleship's 14-inch guns, but from a loud-speaker at the gate to the navy yard. The horn was fed by two smooth-bore breech-loading guns on a dock firing end-pound blank cartridges.

Something of the prestige and romance is gone from a cannon salute when it's all done with noise mirrors, as we may be permitted to call a loudspeaker. But, after all, it is the heart behind the gift that counts. Thirteen guns or twenty-one guns are as valid when fired by somebody pressing a button as when sailors, naked to the waist, tended the guns with ramrod and black powder and ball.

Tradition has learned to go hand-in-hand with technology. The annual holy carpet from Cairo to Mecca now goes by automobile.—New York Times.

Belief That The Indian Is A Vanishing Race Not Borne Out By Official Figures

A Big Undertaking

House 235 Years Old Being Moved To New Location

Timber by timber and brick by brick, a 235-year-old house, built by a ship's carpenter in Haverhill, Mass., before the birth of George Washington is being moved to near-by Pittsford, where it will be reconstructed exactly as it stands for habitation by a Rochester family.

The house, of early Colonial design with a center chimney fed by four huge fireplaces, is being razed at Haverhill. It was purchased by Mitchell Pierson of Rochester, who has prepared plans for its erection on the Pittsford site, in suburban Rochester.

The house, already weathered and old at the time of the Boston Tea Party, was built by John Hutchins, an early English settler in Massachusetts. It caught Mr. Pierson's eye when he was on a trip through New England and he purchased it from Willard Tenney, its owner for the last quarter century.

Not only will the fireplace be rebuilt with exactly the same home-made bricks with which Hutchins originally fashioned it, but intricate corner cupboards, winding staircases and broad window sashes will be replaced in Pittsford, just as they stood in Haverhill. The huge Colonial doorway will be taken apart and rejoined with wooden pegs originally used by the builder.

Has No Ulterior Motive

When Dog Shows Affection It Is For Yourself Alone

You yourself have probably met the greatest winner of friends that the world has ever known. Who is he? He's a puppy. When you meet a puppy coming down the street, he wags his tail, and he is so glad to see you that he almost jumps out of his skin. And you know that behind his show of affection, there are no ulterior motives. He doesn't want to borrow your coat; and he doesn't want to sell you a vacuum cleaner. All he wants is the privilege of being with you and loving you. Is it any wonder that everybody loves a dog?

Too Bad They Couldn't

Some one has discovered that jazz was really invented by the American Indian. They did things differently in the old days, though, and probably it wouldn't be legal now to round up all the hoop-a-doo singers and put them on reservations says the Detroit News.

Then, if nobody talked until he had something to say this would be a silent earth.

A man is really educated when he realizes that the world could get along very well without him.

The popular belief that the Indian is a vanishing race is not borne out by official figures. In fact, the census reports show that the Indian is increasing in numbers, not only in Canada, but also in the United States. The last enumeration taken by the Indian Affairs branch at Ottawa in 1924 shows a population increase among the Indians looked after by this government department, from 104,894 in 1924, to 108,012 in 1929, and to 112,510 in 1934.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its 1931 census showed a total Indian population in Canada of 122,920, the highest since 1901, when 127,941 were recorded. There was a drop of 22,000 in 1911. The discrepancy of the two sets of census figures is caused by the fact that the Indian Affairs branch only looks after Indians who remain wards of the government; the Bureau of Statistics covers the entire population, those on reserves, in the bush, and those Indians who have become full privileged citizens of the Dominion.

While most of Canada's Indians live on reserves, many still live in the northland, where they hunt and trap for fur, help at trading posts, do work at police posts, missions and the mines. Those on the reserves farm and do industrial work near their reserves. When they are in need of food or clothing, through bad crops, or a bad fur year, government aid is given them.

The new generation is learning at 79 boarding schools and 270 day schools, with an enrollment of more than 18,000 children. In addition to the usual curriculum the boys are taught trades and the girls household science. They are also taught to live in white man's ways, so that as many as possible will be able to take out full citizenship papers. About $2,000,000 a year is spent on Indian education.

Under the Indian Act an Indian can shake off the protection of the state which treats him as a ward. He can become a full citizen, and in the older provinces of the Dominion he is taking advantage of that clause in the act. But he has to meet pretty stiff government examination before he can take his place in the world as a Canadian citizen, and the government has to be assured that he can take care of himself. Then when he meets all requirements he ceases to be a ward of the Indian Affairs branch, no longer receives annual treaty money or any of the advantages accorded to the reserve Indians.

Indians have some 2,000 reserves varying in size from a few acres to five hundred square miles. Indians are estimated to have a stake of $71,000,000 in the Dominion in real property, while at Ottawa the government holds in trust for the various tribes about $14,000,000.

While no figures are available on how many Indians roamed the Dominion in the long ago, records go back to 1871, when it was estimated that there were 102,358 in the country. While his present total numbers are not many tens of thousands more, the fact that the Indian is holding his own, and in recent years has even shown an increase in numbers, is a fact little known to those who now live where the Indian once roamed.

Dr. Campbell Nominated For Lethbridge

Dr. Peter McGregor Campbell, for 37 years a medical practitioner in southern Alberta, and at one time president of the Alberta Medical Association, will carry the banner of unity against the Aberhart government in the by-election in the Lethbridge constituency on December 2.

Dr. Campbell received the unanimous nomination from a four-party convention on Friday evening, at which equal delegations from U.F.A., Liberal, Conservative and People's League constituency organizations were seated.

"A Star Is Born."

In "A Star Is Born," the Selznick International picture photographed in Technicolor, appearing at the Opera House this Friday and Saturday, you will see for the first time a bold dramatic revelation of the people and places, the laughter and love, the talent and tears, that all go into the making of movies. You will enjoy first-hand the Hollywood high-spots you've heard and read so much about—the Trocadero, Malibu, the Biltmore Bowl, Santa Anita Race Track, the Hollywood Bowl, stars' homes, the studios at work. You will see an unforgettable moving story of what makes movies.

Janet Gaynor stars as the unknown, unassuming girl who went to Hollywood and rose to the dizzy heights of stardom. And then—Only Miss Gaynor could bring you this role with all its pathos, sincerity and wistful humor. Co-starred with Miss Gaynor is Fredric March, as only he could play the part of Hollywood's greatest star with such dramatic. Others cast in eminent roles are Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Andy Devine, Lionel Stander. The whole production is a bold revelation of how stars are created and why stars fail.

Hearing Before Department

Immigration authorities said a recommendation for deportation contained in the sentence Monday against George F. Powell, British social credit technician, could not be carried out until he had served the six months' prison term imposed on him by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives, at Edmonton.

Powell's case, officials said, would come before the Immigration Department in a hearing under the Immigration Act. The hearing might be held while he was serving his sentence, but a possible decision ordering his deportation would not be carried out until he was released from jail.
